What is an Appendix?

The appendix is a section of your assignment where you include unpublished information, as evidence to support your main argument. Examples include:

Appendix A – Test Scores of Participants

5. A citation should accompany appendices that have been lifted or adapted from other sources. The following reflection, for example, has been completed based on an existing model:

6. Each appendix should begin on a separate page.

Note:

Your appendices are not included in the assignment word count.

Furthermore, material included in the appendices may not be considered towards your final grade; please check your assignment brief carefully.
